

LA TROBE: CASE STUDY

La Trobe University came to Mentorloop to streamline their university mentoring program, in the hopes of making extracurricular skill and career development opportunities accessible to more students. Three months into the program, we asked program participants how they are going:

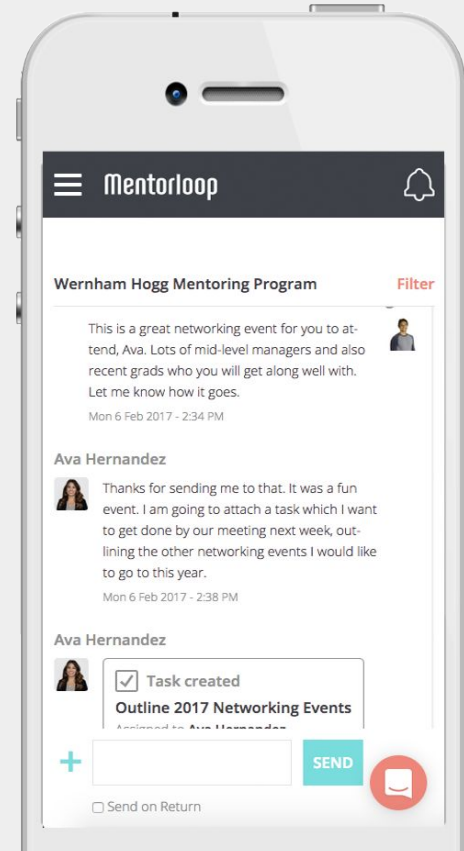

83% of students set clear goals and expectations for the program.

Almost 90% of students rated their current goal progress as 3 out of 5 or above.

80% of respondents rated their mentors helpfulness as good or very good.

"The program is great. I have been paired with a very suitable mentor who has a similar enough background that his experience is relevant, but different enough that I can learn a lot about new (previously unthought of) areas where my skills can be applied."
